EDUCATION

Here at Centurion we believe strongly that at the heart of all Education Construction projects lies our future; The Student. It is imperative that we understand the needs of the school, the administration and staff, however it remains critically sensitive for us to understand how we are ultimately impacting the student's ability to receive a more enhanced learning experience. Education is happening all around our children; in school, at home, in church, and in our communities. At Centurion we are humbled to be part of potentially making an impact in the lives of these children through physical building structures in which they can have a safe harbor to ensure their own prosperity and growth.

We understand the importance and impact of a functional, yet aesthetically pleasing and comfortable school setting which is adaptable to the needs of both current and future students. Equally as important, we know how to navigate the balance of limiting distraction and interruptions to student and staff during construction.

Centurion's methods of project execution as they relate to education are centered on impact to the learning environment, management of monetary expectations and an efficient, dependable project schedule. This is achieved with a visionary pre-construction team, proactive project management and skilled field staff who exhibit the utmost professionalism and exemplary cleanliness. Our reputation and experience in maintaining these standards is what we feel is the value we bring to our Education Sector customers.
